Digital Humanities and Community Building

Samya Brata Roy,
Ph.D. Research Scholar
School of Liberal Arts
Indian Institute of Technology Jodhpur, India

Abstract:

My study and therefore talk is rooted in my experience of being a student and an aspiring academic in India. I start off with exploring the infrastructural and systemic barriers that I have faced which leads to the problem of networking in academic spaces. Here I use the 'field' (I will explain why I use the word field in quotes) of Digital Humanities as a case study to answer, tackle and problematise the idea of building, breaking and re-building communities and why it is ever so important.

Keywords: Networking, Academia, Accessibility, Infrastructures, Community, Digital Humanities